Alpha Week

By: Cam Lilly, Copy Editor

During the week of October 8, the Eta Tau Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha here at Illinois State celebrated their 41st founder's week. They started their week off with the Alpha Spa where the men of the Black and Gold catered to many ladies of ISU with chocolate covered strawberries, massages, and other delectables. "It was different. I had never been to [a spa] on campus. You can tell they worked hard on the event and it was well organized," said Jazmin Means, a Junior Athletic Training major. They hosted an event for breast cancer awareness as well, releasing balloons in honor of the participants' family members and friends who are survivors or were lost to breast cancer.

Wendall Lytle, Sophomore Business Management major said, "It was a fantastic experience to participate as a neo in my first alpha week. We are appreciative of the support from everyone on campus." He went on to say, "The best part was at the end of each event when the faculty, staff, and students came and told us they enjoyed our event. That is what motivates our organization to go above and beyond every year." Lytle crossed Alpha Spring 2012, A.G.S. Immortality. This is his first Alpha Week as an Alpha. Not only did the men of Alpha Phi Alpha have events that catered to the ladies, they also had seminars talking about proper table manners and the danger of domestic violence that
